No Padre... Another Sign of Spring... Auditors

Last Monday I reported that Capt. and Mrs. Bob Peterson of Pinecrest subdivision were making an extended visit in San Antonio, and Bob was planning a deep-sea fishing trip off South Padre Island.

The San Antonio report was O.K.—but no Padre Isle. The Petersons returned home about sundown Tuesday, perhaps lured into cutting their trip short by today's invasion of Spring-like weather.

My only alternative was to launch a counter-attack on Bob, suggesting that as soon as the later-Winter wreckage of audits and tax reports blows away we make a joint attempt to explore South Padre direct from Hope—a matter of 800 miles each way.

Speaking of auditors—Charles Goodness, field auditor for the Audit Bureau of Circulations, Chicago, who lives in Dallas, arrived here this morning to begin The Star's circulation audit for 1970. This is one of the historic moments of the newspaper year—the moment when you turn your records over to an auditor not of your own choosing.

The Audit Bureau of Circulations is controlled by those who buy advertising, checking the accuracy of circulation reports sworn to by newspapers and magazines. Our sworn reports to ABC show we had an average net paid circulation of 3,499 last year. We haven't lost a copy in 22 years of ABC auditing—but our major disgust centers on the fact that the figure couldn't have turned out a round 3,500. Even so, it's the highest yearly average in a decade.

Right behind the ABC auditor will be our own, Lewis R. Cooper, CPA of Little Rock, checking the company books and preparing our income tax returns.

Then, and only then, will we be through with the paper blizzard that rages for 60 to 90 days after each year-end.

Arguments Continue in Arkla Case

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — An attorney for two industrial customers of Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. told the state Public Service Commission Tuesday that Arkla's delivery of natural gas to customers in the state began to decline when the utility entered into an out-of-state contract with Cities Service Corp.

William Grove of Washington, the attorney, said the contract required Arkla to furnish Cities Service with an average daily requirement of 100 million cubic feet of gas for resale to Cities Service customers at Jane, Mo. The contract is for 20 years.

The PSC is considering withdrawing its approval of industrial customer contracts because Arkla contends that industrial rates must be raised so that a pipeline can be built into the Anadarko Basin in Oklahoma and Texas to increase the supply of natural gas.

Trying to Get a Car Inspected in Georgia Will Make a Man Cry

By WILLIAM O. BRYANT
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — After several trips to service stations and considerable waiting, the new vehicle still was not in compliance with Georgia law. It had not been inspected for safety.

The service stations always were busy. Other cars were ahead of me for inspection. I always had to leave before my turn came.

I had purchased the pickup truck in Florida and driven it home, fearful all the way of being stopped for not having a Georgia inspection sticker.

"Be sure and get your truck inspected today," my wife said almost daily as we parted.

"Did you get inspected today?" she would ask when I returned.

She read aloud an item in the newspaper about a man who was heavily fined for having a wreck in an uninspected car.

Getting inspected became an obsession. But always the stations were busy. One day I wait-

Nixon Backs Off Wage, Price Freeze and Both Sides Attack Action

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Backing away from a wage-price freeze, President Nixon has shelved union wage standards on federal building projects in hopes of controlling inflation in the massive construction industry.

Top union and management leaders immediately attacked the President's move as an inadequate and ineffective way to moderate the upward spiral of wages and prices in the building industry.

By choosing this relatively mild step, Nixon left himself open to charges he isn't willing to go far enough to bring inflation under control.

Declaring an inflation emergency exists in construction, Nixon Tuesday suspended indefinitely the 1931 Davis-Bacon Act requiring payment of prevailing wages on federal building jobs.

The effect is to free contractors from paying workers union wages prescribed by the government on projects involving federal money. Only new government projects are affected by the decision.

"The mere suspension of the Davis-Bacon Act may have some long-range results but it will not help in any way to stop the demands for huge wage increases with 1,368 construction agreements set to expire this year," said William E. Dunn, executive director of the Associated General Contractors of America.

In Miami Beach, AFL-CIO President George Meany said Nixon's move will "have no real effect on halting inflation."

He called it "an open invitation to unscrupulous employers to exploit workers by competitive undermining of fair wages and labor standards."

Dope Worth $13 Million Seized

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell today announced arrest of 54 persons and seizures of nearly $13 million in narcotics in what he termed "the largest federal crackdown ever on narcotics distribution by organized crime."

The raids were carried out after 10 p.m. Tuesday in New York, Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia, Hartford, Conn., Baltimore and New Orleans.

Mitchell said the raids and previous arrests netted some of the "high echelon figures" in the nation's organized crime syndicate. Although he did not use the term, Mitchell acknowledged that he was referring to La Cosa Nostra or the Mafia.

Working throughout the night and into the morning federal agents arrested 54 persons, with 32 still sought, Mitchell said. Eighty-nine persons have been arrested prior to 10 p.m. Tuesday, making the total number arrested or sought 175.

Mitchell said the arrests climaxed a five-month investigation by the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs in which a total of 71 pounds of heroin, 49 pounds of cocaine and 256 pounds of marijuana, with a street value of $12.8 million, were seized.

Mitchell said 12 court authorized wiretaps were used in the investigation which had been code named "Operation Flanker." Only two of the 54 persons arrested since Tuesday night offered resistance, he said, but there was no injury.

Rain Expected to Return to Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rain and thunderstorms are expected to begin in Southern Arkansas tonight and spread northward during the night.

Some precipitation is forecast for the entire state Thursday. Rain was falling in South Texas this morning, an indication that winds have begun to shift to the south bringing gulf moisture back into Texas and eventually into Arkansas.

Besides the precipitation, the forecast calls for cloudy skies and mild temperatures Thursday.

Temperatures climbed into the 40s and 50s over the state Tuesday afternoon and highs today were forecast in the mid 50s to mid 60s. Highs Thursday should be in the 60s. Lows tonight should range from the mid 40s to mid 50s.

Overnight lows include Fayetteville 22, Harrison 25, Jonesboro 29, Pine Bluff 32, Texarkana 36, El Dorado 29, Memphis 29, Little Rock 34 and Fort Smith 28.

Authority of Military Trials Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court upheld unanimously today the authority of military tribunals to try servicemen for crimes committed on military posts.

The decision rejected contentions that only military crimes should be subject to a court-martial and that soldiers and sailors accused of all other crimes within the United States should be turned over to civilian courts.

The ruling, delivered by Justice Harry A. Blackmun, went against Isiah Relford, a Georgia soldier convicted of kidnapping and raping the 14-year-old sister of an airman at Ft. Dix, N.J., in 1961. Relford is serving a 30-year sentence at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan.

In June 1969 the court ruled 5 to 3 that a court-martial may not try a serviceman for the rape of a young girl in a Honolulu hotel. The court limited the military's jurisdiction to "service-connected" crimes, but was not explicit about the meaning of the phrase.

The Relford decision fills in much of the gap by insuring military authority over crimes committed against civilians on a military post, particularly when they are relatives of servicemen. Blackmun stressed the military has an "essential and obvious interest" in protecting the security of people and of property on military posts and that the military commander has a responsibility to maintain order in his command.

Court Expands Libel Freedom of Newspapers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court expanded today the freedom of newspapers to report about political candidates without fear of libel judgments.

In an unanimous holding the court said aspects of a candidate's entire life, no matter how far back in time or remote from the political race, may be put to the public unhampered by the threat of a libel suit.

Even if the newspaper gets its facts wrong, the court said, it can be sued for damages only if it is guilty of malice. This means that it either knew the facts were wrong or was reckless about checking into them.

Reversed by the holding were a $20,000 award to a former New Hampshire congressman and a $22,000 award to a small-town Florida politician. In both instances jurors found they had been libeled by newspapers.

The ruling is a further broadening of the Supreme Court's decision in a New York Times case in 1964 that public officials can collect libel judgments only if they prove malice. In subsequent rulings the court included holders of minor office and private individuals who willingly take part in public affairs.

Today's holding adds to this category candidates for political office, no matter how small the office sought.

Bill to Increase the Sales Tax to 4 Per Cent Is Before House

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A bill to increase the state sales tax from 3 to 4 per cent was introduced Tuesday in the Arkansas House.

The bill is sponsored by Reps. Ode Maddox of Oden, Lloyd McCuiston of West Memphis and Boyce Alford. Maddox said he was optimistic the bill would pass.

Several representatives objected to a routine second reading of the measure after its introduction, and the House refused to suspend the rules to allow a second reading Tuesday. The action delayed the progress of the bill by one day.

Sens. Virgil T. Fletcher of Benton and George Locke of Hamburg introduced a bill to permit bank branch offices to perform more of the functions present law restricts to the main bank office.

The measure, Senate Bill 363, would allow branch offices to

City to Take Bids on New Equipment

The Board of City Directors authorized advertising for bids on an estimated $60,000 worth of machinery to operate the sanitary land-fill at their regular meeting last night.

Bids will be asked for on a ¾ yard dragline and a tractor dozer. Purchase of the new equipment was necessary to comply with the new regulations of the State Pollution Control Commission on the handling of municipal wastes. The Board ordered the City Attorney to draw up an amendment to the health ordinance to provide the revenue necessary to operate the sanitation program, and to provide in the ordinance for the creation of a replacement fund for machinery and equipment.

They ordered the fund to be set up and a monthly transfer be made so that when equipment wears out the city will be able to replace it. When the new equipment is purchased, the city will have over $100,000 invested in machinery, trucks, fogging machines and land for the dump-ground. The estimated annual replacement on all equipment is set at $11,470.

Mike Kelly, Housing Authority Director, was present for a discussion of developments of the Urban Renewal program. In connection with this program, the Board adopted two resolutions which would provide for federal assistance on housing for low income groups. One resolution was to provide for the adoption of a government program which permits the housing authority to lease housing built by private interests

Six Choppers Lost Under Sharp Attack

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Two South Vietnamese bases inside Laos were under sharp attack late today in a new upsurge of fighting in the drive to cut the Ho Chi Minh trail field reports said.

Six more American helicopters were shot down or damaged in the action around the bases, but no details were available, the accounts said.

One of the bases was said to be north of Highway 9, the main incursion route and the other to the south. Both are 10 miles inside Laos. A South Vietnamese ranger base six miles inside Laos was overrun last week with heavy casualties.

Officials in Saigon said they had no information on the reports of the new fighting.

The field reports could not say how many of the helicopters were shot down and how many damaged. Three helicopters were shot down Tuesday.

Tuesday's losses raised to 29 the number of U.S. helicopters reported lost on both sides of the border in the 17-day-old drive into Laos. At least 40 Americans have been killed, 15 are missing and 26 wounded in the crashes.

The big U.S. base at Quang Tri in the northern zone came under rocket attack late tonight, Associated Press correspondent William Barton reported.

He said the shelling hit the outer edges of the base and lasted about half an hour, but there were no immediate reports of casualties or damage. Quang Tri is temporary headquarters for the U.S. 24th Corps, the parent unit directing American activities in support of the Laos drive.

Earlier, the U.S. Command said American air strikes have wiped out huge North Vietnamese war stockpiles on the Ho Chi Minh trail, including an estimated 800 tons of ammunition, more than 120 caches of weapons and supplies and 330 vehicles. It also reported four fuel pipelines cut.

The command also reported air attacks on three more missile sites in North Vietnam which it said threatened U.S. B52 bombers attacking the Ho Chi Minh trail.

For the seventh successive day, no forward movement was reported by the 16,000 South Vietnamese ground troops whose forwardmost elements are 16 miles inside Laos, according to their government.

The South Vietnamese military spokesman, Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, retreated today from his statement Tuesday that Saigon's forces had no intention to advance farther. He told his daily briefing for correspondents.

"We would like to clarify what we wanted to say. The purpose of the operation in Laos is not to occupy territory. It is to disrupt the enemy supply lines and to make the enemy supply flow more difficult. Concerning whether the ARVN (Army of the Republic of Vietnam) will make further advances, we have nothing to say on that."

'Do-Pass' for Revenue Bills

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Three bills in Gov. Dale Bumpers' $26 million tax package were given "do-pass" recommendations Tuesday by the Revenue and Taxation Committee of the Arkansas House.

The bills would reduce from 2 to 1 per cent the discount merchants receive for collecting the state sales tax, extend the 3 per cent sales tax to repair services and repeal the use tax exemption granted utilities and transportation companies.

Speaker Ray S. Smith Jr. of Hot Springs said the House would begin consideration of the tax measures today in order to try to complete work on them in time to permit budgets to be prepared and passed so the legislature can adjourn on time, March 11.

Thinks Laos Drive May Get Worse

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today South Vietnamese forces in Laos are achieving their objectives but warned "it's going to be tough going in the days ahead."

In a Pentagon news conference, Laird said the Laos operation was an antilogistics attack to disrupt the flow of North Vietnam supplies and equipment.

"The South Vietnamese forces, under challenging and hazardous conditions which have been fully anticipated," Laird said, "are achieving their objective of major disruption of North Vietnam supply routes."

Laird also discounted reports of U.S. involvement in the operation, which the government has said is limited to air support.

"Whatever the day-to-day reports may indicate about ground battles... the unassailable fact is that U.S. involvement in the war is going down, down, down and we continue to follow that policy," Laird said.

Laird said operations in Cambodia and Laos had taken the initiative away from the enemy by cutting off sanctuaries and supply lines.

"Hard fighting lies ahead," Laird added, however. "The South Vietnamese military force is up against a determined and ruthless invader..." Laird said.

Laird continued to reflect the Nixon administration's optimistic view of the situation in Laos, although reports from the field have told of difficult fighting and high South Vietnamese losses.

"The initiative no longer belongs to the enemy in Indochina," Laird said, adding "that is one reason I continue to hope for a break through" in the stalled Paris peace talks.

Laird summarized the South Vietnamese operations in Laos and Cambodia in an opening statement. Then, Lt. Gen. John Vogt, director of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, gave a detailed military briefing on the two operations.

The Board discussed making a building at the airport available for a prospective industry. They agreed to do the necessary repairs to put the building in useable condition and repair the roads leading to it, and to make the building available on a 5 year lease at $100 per month. Revenue received from this would go into the airport fund. The industry that is considering this is dealing through an intermediary and did not want plans or name announced until a final decision had been made. It would be a small operation, employing 15 or 20 people.

The Board reviewed a number of suggestions made by the Citizens Advisory Committee. Among their suggestions was the removal of about 10 old dilapidated residential buildings in the city and the forcing of all rent property to furnish a minimum of sanitary facilities. They ordered that any building not meeting minimum sanitary standards be condemned at any time it became vacant, and not permitting it to be reoccupied until minimum conditions had been met.

Senate Acts Fast on Use Tax Repeal

By ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Senate gave swift and almost unanimous approval Tuesday to Gov. Dale Bumpers' bill to repeal the use tax exemptions granted utilities and transportation companies.

The bill, bearing two amendments, became the fourth administration tax bill approved by the Senate and sent to the House.

The House was scheduled to consider administration tax measures this afternoon.

The vote on the exemption repealer was 34-0, one vote short of unanimity. Sen. W. D. Moore Jr. of El Dorado announced himself "present" when his name was called.

In the House, the representatives completed legislation action on a bill that would grant the state's firemen sick leave of up to 60 days a year. The vote on the bill, whose author is Sen. Knox Nelson of Pine Bluff, was 60-14.

The two amendments to the exemption repealer, adopted Monday by the Senate, would continue to exempt locomotive fuel from the 3 per cent tax and provide a four-step phaseout of other exemptions that had been enjoyed by the quasipublic corporations.

Bumpers had proposed that 2 per cent of the tax take effect this year and all 3 per cent on July 1, 1972. The amended version provides for a tax of 1 per cent on July 1 of this year, 1.5 per cent on July 1, 1972, 2 per cent on July 1, 1973, and the full tax a year later.

The firemen's bill was approved over the objections of representatives who said it would place another burden on already financially pressed cities.

Rep. L. L. Bryan of Russellville said he was sympathetic to the firemen, but that the cities could not afford the bill. Rep. Ron Archer of Russellville said the legislature was dictating to the cities on how to spend their money while it was not responsible for raising the funds.

Supporters of the legislation claimed that firemen were due the sick leave benefits because of the hazardous nature of their jobs. "This is one thing we can spend our money on," said Rep. Frank Henslee of Pine Bluff.

Rep. Boyce Alford of Pine Bluff said some cities already granted as much or more sick leave by ordinance.

A state school aid bill that is represented as a compromise measure withstood attempts Tuesday to amend the formula by which new state money would be distributed to the school districts for the next two years.

Under the bill, no district would receive more than enough state funds to provide its teachers with salary increases amounting to 2 1/2 times the salary increases provided by districts receiving the least amount of aid per teacher. The ratio by which aid for school maintenance and operation would be distributed would be 3 to 1.

Rep. Harry Carter, principal of Little Rock Central High School, tried to change the teacher salary ratio to 2 to 1, but was defeated 16-78. He failed 16-74 with an amendment to change the maintenance and operation ratio to 2 1/2 to 1.

Rep. Bill Randall of Hot Springs also tried unsuccessfully to get the House to extend the formula over a four-year period rather than over two years.

Adopted by the House, however, was an amendment by Rep. G. W. Turner Jr. of Pine Bluff that would give more aid to school districts in years in which they experience a greatly increased enrollment.

The House rejected an attempt by Rep. Preston Bynum of Siloam Springs to change from $1.10 to $1.50 the amount of tax per $1,000 value that would be imposed on real estate transfers by an administration bill that has passed the Senate. The amendment failed 31-57.

Bumpers has offered the bill to reduce the current tax of $3 per $1,000 value.

—Passed 92-1 a bill by Sen. Dorothy Allen of Brinkley that regulates the reserve requirements of state chartered banks.

—Defeated a bill by Sen. Clarence Bell of Parkin that would permit engineers and surveyors to attach liens to obtain payment for their services. The bill failed 49-20, two favorable votes short of the number needed for passage, after the House was polled.

—Defeated a bill by Sen. Clarence Bell of Parkin that would permit engineers and surveyors to attach liens to obtain reimbursement for their services. The vote on the House's voting machine was 52-20, one more vote than necessary for passage, but three favorable votes were cast out when opponents asked for a poll of the House.

—Defeated 36-47 a bill by Sen. Burrell Thompson of Paragould requiring a railroad to clean up derailment debris within 90 days after the wreck. The bill remained alive when Rep. Charles Lutes of Blytheville gave notice that he might seek reconsideration.

—Approved 92-0 a bill by Sen. Max Howell of Little Rock that would permit absentee voting without registering by members of the armed services and Merchant Marines and Arkansans living in other countries.

—Passed 88-0 a bill by Sen. Olen Hendrix of Prescott to move Scott County from the 9th Judicial Circuit to the 15th Circuit.

—Refused on a 50-37 vote, with 67 votes needed, to wipe out the vote by which the House last week passed a bill that would prohibit collection agencies from sending to debtors documents that gave the appearance of being a court summons for failure to pay their debts.

Fasting on Tea, Water

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy is fasting—taking only water and unsweetened tea—to draw attention to a new campaign to be announced soon by his Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Abernathy, the SCLC president, told a news conference Monday he has fasted since last Thursday and would continue through Friday.

He said details of the campaign, what he called "a spring offensive," will be announced at a news conference in Washington later this week. He had said earlier that SCLC plans another "poor people's march" on the capital.

Carried Out Orders, Calley Says

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — Men, women, children. They were all the enemy to Lt. William L. Calley at My Lai, he said—the people he'd been ordered to destroy.

"I didn't discriminate between individuals in the village, sir," he testified Tuesday at his murder trial.

Calley appeared edgy and worried-looking at the start of cross-examination, which continues today.

But his answers were crisp and capped with military "sir" as prosecutor Aubrey Daniel, an Army captain, led him through the day nearly three years ago, on which the Army charges Calley murdered 102 villagers with premeditation.

Calley told how the 27 men in his platoon started through the village with their guns blazing, firing "at the enemy."

He said he did not discriminate between men, women and children because "they were all the enemy, they were all to be destroyed."

Calley's testimony differed in a number of ways from that of some of the 74 witnesses who preceded him to the stand in the small, windowless courtroom.

He said he changed the magazine of 18 bullets in his M16 rifle only once that March 16, 1968—and that at lunch time when the shooting was over.

David Paul Meadlo, a soldier in Calley's platoon who said he stood beside the lieutenant shooting into large groups of people on two occasions, said Calley changed magazines four or five times at the first spot and 10 to 15 times at the second.

The charges against Calley are that he killed or ordered the killing of at least 30 at a trail intersection inside the village and at least 70 at a ditch at the eastern edge.

Calley admitted that he di-

Students in ROTC Protest

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. (AP) — About 200 students at Henderson State College assembled at the school's ROTC drill field Tuesday to protest mandatory ROTC for all male freshmen and sophomore students.

The HSC Board of Trustees voted last week not to switch to a voluntary ROTC program. The board will reconsider its decision March 24.

Col. James H. Spears said that about 140 students were absent from Tuesday's drill, but the number was only slightly above the normal rate. Student had said that 50 per cent of the ROTC students had missed drill to demonstrate.

He testified he was prodded twice by Capt. Ernest Medina, his company commander, over the radio to move the villagers faster to the other side of the ditch, a landmark on the eastern side of the village.

Calley said one purpose of taking prisoners was to move them ahead of troops as human probes for mines.

Calley said he ran into Meadlo and asked him whether he knew what he was supposed to do with the people.

Q. What did he say?
A. He said he did, sir. I told him to get moving, sir.

Q. What did you mean when you said to have him 'get moving'?

A. Get the people moving, get them on the other side of the ditch.

Q. You didn't mean for him to kill them?

A. Not if he could move them, no, sir. I am still worried about the minefield, sir.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

HE'S A BIG BOY NOW, MAMA Dear Helen:

My son, age 28, has been going out with a wonderful girl for five years. She and I couldn't see why they didn't get married, so she started to drop hints, too.

Well, there was a fight, and he dropped her. You never saw a more miserable girl, and I was terribly upset also. I told him what a mistake he was making!

After two months my son had a change of heart and said he was ready for marriage. He went over to tell the girl, and Helen, you won't believe this: She said she had met a "wonderful fellow" and the marriage was set for spring.

No amount of talk would change her mind. I really tried, as I always felt she would be the perfect daughter-in-law. I think if my son would try harder, he might still win her - after all, five years can't be brushed off, while a two-month friendship can't be serious. But he just shrugs.

How can I get him to fight for what he wants? — DISAPPOINTED AND CONCERNED Dear D and C:

... What he wants, or what YOU want?

Your son appears more relieved than bereaved. So shrug, too, Mamma. —H. Dear Helen:

For years I have been aware of my homosexual tendencies. My doctor said there was no cure, and he advised women of this type against marriage. I hated my weakness, wouldn't give in to it, and determined to cure myself.

So I married a man who interested me very much. He fit well into my athletically active life, and I tried to love him. I thought I succeeded, but somehow we drifted into a nothing relationship.

We barely talk, though we are not angry. My mind is just whirling with the things we used to do, but now if I mention these activities the response is "Maybe tomorrow." It never comes. So I've been doing things on my own or with friends. The only time I get any real attention at home is when my husband decides he "needs" me.

In the beginning, I thought surely he could keep me on the right track, but now my interests are with someone else, and it's not a man!

I'm scared. I want to be morally straight, but these years of no communication and dwindling activities are slowly pushing me out of bounds. I feel guilty that I can't respond to my

Spring Coverup

This Pow-Wow poncho can double as a skirt. Indian designs are created with the Buttoneer, which attaches one-hole buttons with tough nylon filament. It can even be used to attach the fringe.

By JOANNE SCHREIBER

Worth its weight in warmth is the Indian poncho, worn as a springtime cover-up over jumpsuits or jeans. It's even better when it can be worn as a skirt as well, bridging the gap between soft buckskin boots and a skinny knit top.

Today's poncho can be worn both ways. It's THE design for anyone planning to stitch up a poncho for spring—and that's practically everyone. This poncho is easy to sew, easy to wear, and easy to decorate. All the beads are one-hole buttons, attached with the Buttoneer. This nifty little gadget attaches buttons by shooting a nylon filament through buttonhole and fabric to secure the button instantly and permanently. Even the fringe may be attached with buttons.

To make our Pow-Wow Poncho, you will need 1 1/4 yards (48 inches) of any fabric at least 48 inches wide. We used a lightweight flannel. Other suggestions are suede cloth, felt, vinyl, fake fur, double knit, corduroy. Also, 5 1/2 yards of fringe, a Buttoneer with enough buttons to make the designs you want, a 7-inch skirt zipper. Lining is optional, but will give the poncho more body. It will also cover the nylon filament stubs on the wrong side of the poncho.

Cut a 48-inch square of fabric. Hem allowance is 1 1/2 inches. Find the center of the square, and cut out a square corresponding to the size of your waist, allowing 1/2-inch for seam. For a 24-inch waist, cut a square that is 5 1/2 inches on each side.

Insert zipper at one corner of square. This step may be omitted if you plan to use the skirt only as a poncho.

Spread poncho out flat and lightly trace desired design. A border treatment is almost essential. We used a double row of dark buttons in circles, tear drops and figure 8

More Safety in Penicillin Under Study

By C.G. McDANIEL
AP Science Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Tests have been developed which are expected to make possible a reduction in the number of deaths from penicillin reaction and, at the same time, allow more people to take the drug with safety.

This was reported Monday by researchers at the annual meeting of the American Academy of Allergy.

An estimated 600 persons die each year as a result of severe allergic reaction to penicillin. The researchers said that perhaps 50 times more die of diseases which penicillin can cure, but they were thought to be allergic to the drug and were not given it.

Up to now, physicians have had to rely almost entirely on the patient's word and memory as to whether he ever had a penicillin reaction. And some designs. A large center front decorative treatment is effective, and you should put an edging around the neck (or waist) opening. Use your imagination, and take the time to arrange the buttons attractively before attaching them with the Buttoneer.

To make lining, cut square of lining material the same size as the poncho, cutting out hole in center. With right side of lining against right side of poncho. Pin together raw edges of center opening. Stitch around edge, leaving 1/2-inch seam allowance. Turn lining through center square to inside. Slit along zipper and hand-hem edge of lining to zipper tape.

Fold in raw edges of poncho and lining. Press and pin in place. Blind stitch together. Cover edge with fringe, which may be hand-stitched or machine-stitched in place, or attached with buttons.

A pow-wow poncho like this may be made in smaller sizes for smaller girls (a basic 30-inch square would be about right for the average 8-year-old) or in larger sizes for men (there are plenty of 60-inch fabrics around). It can be decorated with monograms, fraternity symbols, or peace symbols. Whatever you do to decorate a poncho, it's sure to be the most useful garment in your spring wardrobe.

persons who had never received the drug did not know whether they would have an adverse reaction.

An academy study group reported it performed skin tests on 1,160 patients, injecting them with chemicals called reagents which cause penicillin allergic persons to develop weals on the skin.

The report of the study was presented by Dr. Arthur Rosenblum of Michael Reese Hospital and Medical Center, Chicago, who served as chairman of the 26-member group.

Rosenblum told newsmen that a positive reaction to the test means the patient should not be given penicillin. A negative reaction means he can probably be given the drug with safety, Rosenblum said.

Dr. Bernard Levine, a professor at New York University School of Medicine and a leading researcher with the tests, said the most severe reactions to penicillin are found in the 35-to-65 age group.

Although the tests have not been approved by the Food and Drug Administration for general use, Levine said that once they are physicians will be able to determine within minutes whether it is safe to give a patient penicillin.

Not all patients who react to penicillin have fatal reactions.

The most severe reaction is called anaphylaxis. Other reactions include hives and other skin irritations and swellings.

Getting back into winning form and breaking a four game losing streak, the Hope Bobcats stymied the Malvern Leopards last night in the Leopards home gym, 62-57.

Hope now owns a season record of 14-10 and a conference slate of 5-4, with their last round-robin play at home against Camden Friday night, which promises to be a wild one.

Getting the tipoff first, the Bobcats ran up an early 7-3 lead on shots by John Dudley and Parker Powell, with Malvern's Tom McClure the only one able to hit for them.

With 2:59 left in the period, Lynn Norton sank a jumpshot, and five more points by Dudley pushed Hope out to a 14-8 margin, entering the second period.

Again the Cats got the tipoff, and again they scored first, this time on David Briggs' free throw with only five seconds missing on the scoreboard, since the quarter had begun.

As the clock steadily ticked down, the Bobcats began working on the inside for the first time in a few games and within two minutes, Dudley had racked in seven points with some fine assists from his teammates, as Hope had stretched out a 22-11 lead.

With Norton and Dudley hitting two points each, the Cats hit a cold streak, and with Ivan Burnell leading the way, Malvern soon trailed only 26-22, with 2:53 left in the first half.

However, free throws by Briggs and Norton kept Hope's lead and at halftime the Cats led 35-28, with a rough second half coming.

Outscored 18-11 in the third quarter Hope found themselves without a lead moving into the final period, as Malvern had knotted the score at 46 all. Most of the scoring was done by Dudley and Briggs, with Norton and Charles Frazier also adding a point each.

With a fired up Leopard team, eager for a conference win in front of the home town crowd, breathing down their necks, the Bobcats began to roll at the final quarter quarter tipoff.

With Powell exchanging field goals with Edward McAlister, the Cats took the lead for the remainder of the game after Steve Harris hit two charity shots with 6:56 left.

Goals by Dudley and Powell and two more charity throws by Harris notched up a 56-50, Hope lead with just under five minutes to go.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It took a blizzard to stop Kansas—but not for long.

The fifth-ranked Jayhawks, forced to postpone their Monday night game against Kansas State when a massive snowstorm enveloped the Midwest, traded their boots for sneakers Tuesday night and buried the Wildcats 61-48.

It was their 15th straight triumph—the longest streak since their national championship season of 1952—and lifted their record to 21-1, the best in more than 25 years.

In other major action, Indiana University stunned 12th-rated Michigan 88-79, Weber State squeezed out a 63-62 upset over 16th-ranked Utah State, No. 18 Ohio State took to the court to turn back Iowa 80-71, 19th-ranked Notre Dame waited all over New York University 106-68, Villanova squeezed by Providence 76-75, Oklahoma, also delayed a night, whipped Nebraska 65-56 and Houston Baptist snapped Louisiana State New Orleans' 27-game winning skein, sinking the Privateers 84-75.

Oklahoma State's Cowboys, who spent part of Monday shivering in a bus snowbound on the Kansas Turnpike near Wichita, returned to civilization but their game against Missouri, originally set for Monday night, was pushed back a second time to tonight.

Kansas State held on gamely against their high-powered rivals, trailing by just two points at intermission and leading 39-38 midway in the second half.

Then, despite the loss on fouls of their star, Dave Robisch, the Jayhawks put together a blistering fast break that melted the Wildcats. Bud Stallworth of Kansas led all scorers with 23 points.

Sophomores George McGinnis and Steve Downing combined for 61 points and 32 rebounds as Indiana built up a 46-39 halftime lead, then opened it to as many as 13 points in the second half against the Wolverines. Henry Wilmore had 26 for Michigan.

Another soph, Brady Small, hit four big foul shots in the final 30 seconds for Weber State, which had to rally from seven points back to down the Aggies.

Ohio State, vaulting over Michigan to the top of the Big Ten, equalled Iowa with 30 field goals but connected on 20 of 24 free throws while Iowa hit 11 of 15. The 18th-ranked Buckeyes' 15th victory in 20 games was led by Alan Hornsby's 23 points but honors went to Iowa's Kevin Kunnert with 28.

NYU stayed even until Notre Dame turned a 9-9 tie into an 18-9 lead and, eventually, into a 51-33 halftime margin. The 19th-ranked Irish continued to pour it on after the break with Austin Carr rolling to a game-high 45 points.

Villanova raced to a 23-10 edge but Providence clawed within one at the half, then the lead seasawed the rest of the way before Clarence Smith's layup with four seconds to go won it for Villanova.

Oklahoma held Nebraska scoring ace Marv Stewart to nine points—12 under his average—and the Sooners, paced by Bobby Jack's 23 points, broke away midway in the second half by holding the Cornhuskers scoreless for more than four minutes.

Houston Baptist controlled the backboards against LSU-New Orleans and, after grabbing a quick 11-3 lead, settled back to stay comfortably ahead 44-33 at the half.

In other action, Eugene Kennedy, Jim Ferguson and Simpson Degrate teamed for 70 points as Texas Christian whipped Baylor 94-84, Willie Allen's career-high 34 points, including the decisive foul shot in the final minute, lifted Miami, Fla., over Marshall 89-88 and St. Francis rode Kevin Porter's 36 points to an 80-70 win against the University of Detroit.

Clemson held Maryland to a single point in overtime and Dave Thomas hit a basket to put the Tigers ahead to stay in their 51-45 victory, and Eric Hill and Ollie Shannon hit 23 points apiece for Minnesota, which used some late foul shots to put away Northwestern 81-79.

A jubilant Coach Johnny Swaim tagged it "the best game TCU has played all year" and it couldn't have come at a better time.

Texas Christian's riproaring Horned Frogs upended Baylor 94-84 in the Bears' own backyard Tuesday night to take a two-game lead in the Southwest Conference basketball race with three games to play.

That puts the Frogs in the position of being able to tie at least for the title Saturday night if they defeat Texas in Fort Worth.

The victory gave TCU a 9-2 league record and dropped Baylor back into the pack at 7-4, tied for second with Texas Tech and Southern Methodist.

Tech edged an improved Arkansas club 89-87, SMU bopped Rice 95-87 and Texas A&M ripped Texas 65-64 in other games Tuesday night.

TCU took the lead from the start and never trailed against the Bears, one of the top scoring teams in the nation.

Baylor Coach Bill Menefee said; "TCU certainly proved tonight that it has a tremendous basketball team. They did everything and did it well."

TCU's super transfers Eugene "Goo" Kennedy and Simpson "The Great" Begrate engineered the Frog victory with both shooting and rebounding. Kennedy had 25 points and 20 rebounds while Degrate scored 22 and snared 11 rebounds.

Jerry Hopkins led Baylor with 18 points as the Bears' high-scoring William Chatmon was held to nine. TCU shot 54 per cent from the field and won the rebounding battle 45-37.

Agkansas, which last weekend upset Texas, almost pulled off another shocker, running to within two points of the Raiders in the waning seconds.

Tech Coach Gerald Myers said, "After our loss to Texas A&M (Saturday), our players made up their minds and went out to play good, hard basketball. Overall, I thought we played a pretty good ball game against Arkansas—at least for 38 minutes. There is just no excuse for the way we played our last two minutes."

Tech held a seven-point lead with 38 seconds to go. Wayne Howard hit a jumper with one minute left to give the Aggies their second straight victory.

Red Judges Always Vote Same Way

By HARVEY HUDSON

LYON, France (AP) — It could be politics, it could be personal preferences or it could be a point of view, but the Communist judges in the dance competition at the World Figure Skating Championships all think alike—and it seems to add up to a sure gold medal for Russia.

Talk about politics in judging comes up at every world championship. It can never be proved, since the judging is purely subjective, but the dancing this year gives a good insight on how it can work.

Ludmila Pachomova and Alexander Gorshkov of Russia seem certain to repeat last year's victory in the world championship dancing.

They took the lead Tuesday night after the first two compulsory dances with 100.4 judging points. Judy Schwomeyer of Indianapolis and Jim Sladky of Syracuse, N.Y., were tied for second with Angelika and Erich Buck of West Germany with 99.9 judging points.

But the complications of figure skating judging enter the picture. It is possible for a pair to win with fewer judging points than an opponent. This is because the place points, or ordinates—determined by adding up the placement order by each judge—can be a determining factor. But, as a final method of arbitration, the skater with the greatest number of first place votes determines.

After the first two dances, Miss Pachomova and Gorshkov were leading all the way down the list.

The first places for the Russians came from the Czechoslovak, Polish, Russian and Hungarian judges on the nine-judge panel. Miss Schwomeyer and Sladky were rated first by the American, British and Canadian judges, and split the first place of the French judge with the Germans. The Bucks, of course, got the first place vote of the West German judge.

The finals of the pairs competition will be held tonight. Two Russian pairs are leading after the compulsory figures, with Jo Jo Starbuck and Ken Shelley of Downey, Calif. in third place.

Ludmila Smirnova and Andrei Surakin of Russia, who took the silver medal in last year's world championship, were in the lead with 104.2 judging points. They got the first place votes of every judge.

Irina Rudnina and Sergei Ulanov, defending world champions and winners of the recent European championship, were in second place with 102.6 points. They were placed second by each judge. Miss Starbuck and Shelley had 99 points.

The final two compulsory figures for the men also will be skated today.

Ondrej Nepela of Czechoslovakia was leading after four figures with Patrick Pera of France second.

John Petkevich, of Great Falls, Mont., America's top hope, was back in fifth place and has practically no hope of climbing higher than third even with a superb free skating performance.

The men's free skating, deciding the title, will be held Thursday night.

Longden Has Resigned as a Trainer

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—John Longden, who retired as a jockey in 1966 after setting a record for riding victories, has resigned as trainer for Frank McMahon stables.

Longden has been a trainer for McMahon, a Canadian millionaire and longtime friend, since he stepped down after riding 6,032 winners, a record broken last year by Bill Shoemaker.

It was reported that Longden, 63, wants to help his wife Hazel train her horses, including a possible Kentucky Derby contender, Diplomatic Agent. Longden was unavailable for comment Tuesday, but his wife denied he was leaving McMahon to assist her.

It was also reported that Longden's son Vance, who has trained horses for McMahon, may succeed his father as trainer.

Longden saddled the 1969 winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, Majestic Prince, which raced under McMahon's colors. But Longden reportedly disagreed with McMahon's decision to enter the horse in the third leg of the Triple Crown, the Belmont Stakes, where it finished second to Arts and Letters.

Ageless Gene Sarazen Is Celebrating

By WILL GRIMSLEY

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Ageless Gene Sarazen, celebrating his golden anniversary in the PGA championship, says there are two things in modern day golf that rankle him—long hair and long courses.

"It's nauseating the way some of these fellows let their hair grow," the doughty little warrior said, designating nobody in particular. "Some of them look like girls."

"Don't they realize they're on national television, playing before 30 million people? They should have more respect for the game."

Many players on the tour, particularly the younger ones, have gone mod. One of them is former PGA champion Ray Floyd, whose curly locks fall to his shoulders. Phil Rodgers is cultivating a healthy, free-flowing mop. Tom Shaw, Bob Stannett, Ron Cerrudo and Jim Wiechers are others who are boosting the Bobby pin business.

"Those mutton-chop sideburns, I don't like them, either," Sarazen complained.

Sarazen, who will be 69 Saturday, is one of the liveliest and most controversial of the 148 pros who will tee off Thursday in the 53rd PGA championship. Touring the 7,096-yard, par 72 PGA National Golf Club course in a practice round Tuesday, he strode from shot to shot almost without breaking step. He's always been one of the game's fastest.

Observers wondered how he might fare with the notoriously slow Jack Nicklaus, with whom he's paired in the first and second rounds.

"I'm not worried about that," Gene said. "I'm just worried about the length of the course. It's said to be a little over 7,000 yards. Tome, it feels like it's 9,000."

"I think it's ridiculous the way they keep stretching courses. They are making golf a game of sheer brute strength. Finesse and shot management means nothing any more. To win, you have to be able to overpower a course. Few can do it."

Sarazen said, because of the heavyweight character of the layout, the PGA tournament will be a battle again among the big hitters.

"You have to favor Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus," he added.

"Of course, you have to consider Gary Player, Bill Casper and Tony Jacklin, the name players. I don't take much stock in the new crop of whiz kids. In the big championships, when the pressure gets tight, you have to go with the established players."

Sarazen, son of an Italian immigrant, was a brash, fresh kid, of 19, just out of caddie ranks at Westchester County's Appawamis Club in New York, when he played his first PGA tournament in 1921 at Inwood on Long Island.

He upset the defending champion, Jock Hutchison, but lost to Cyril Walker. The title was won

More Fitting for Putting

SPACE CENTER, Houston

(AP) — Photographs indicate Apollo 14 astronaut Alan B. Shepard's lunar golf game was more fitted for the putting greens than the fairway.

While Shepard was on the moon earlier this month, he used a makeshift club to whack two smuggled golf balls over the lunar terrain.

Shepard claimed his shots went "miles and miles and miles."

Monday, Dr. Gordon Swann of the U.S. Geological Survey said pictures brought back by Shepard and fellow moonlander Edgar D. Mitchell showed one of the golf balls in a crater near their lunar spaceship.

"I think it's about 20 yards out," Swann said.

Brisker's Hot Hand Sizzles at Right Time

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pittsburgh's John Brisker has the hottest hand in the American Basketball Association and fortunately for the Condors, it has been sizzling at the right moment too.

Brisker turned in his second straight 42-point game Tuesday night and again scored the winning basket in the final seconds as Pittsburgh overcame Kentucky 133-130.

In other ABA games, Virginia defeated Memphis 106-97 and Utah belted Denver 133-103.

In the National Basketball Association, Los Angeles downed Baltimore 114-107, Philadelphia took Portland 119-113, San Diego ripped New York 126-109, and Milwaukee ripped San Francisco 118-107.

Brisker's late basket helped Pittsburgh stave off a frantic last-gasp effort by Kentucky spearheaded by a flurry of three-point baskets by Darrel Carrier.

After three three-pointers by Carrier had tied the game, Brisker's jumper with nine seconds left and a foul shot by Skeeter Swift clinched the game for Pittsburgh. Carrier tried for the tying three-pointer at the buzzer but missed.

Brisker, who also had 42 in his last start against Virginia, won that game with a last-second basket, too.

The Squires used 33 points from rookie Charley Scott to whip Memphis. Scott had his 17 in the first half as Virginia opened a lead that grew to as much as 11 points. Then Steve Jones led a Memphis comeback that shaved the lead to as little as one point before three straight jumpers by Scott moved Virginia comfortably in front again.

Utah had seven players in double figures led by Glen Combs, Ron Boone and George Stone, who had 20 points each, and the Stars routed Denver. Larry Cannon of Denver led all scorers with 28 points.

by Walter Hagen who went on to take five titles, four in a row.

"Hagen was the Palmer of his day," Gene recalled. "He had a flair. I rank him as the best competitive golfer I've seen over the 50-year span."

Defends Taking a Greenie Before Game

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer Chuck Dobson has thrown a pitch for the "Greenie."

While other pitchers loosened up their throwing arms at spring training camps Tuesday, the Oakland right-hander, questioned about baseball's upcoming drug seminars, admitted that he has taken pills called greenies and said, "I don't see anything wrong in it."

Dobson will attend one of the seminars, set for next month to begin a drug education and prevention program in baseball, as the A's player representative.

"I had to pitch last year with the flu," Dobson said at the club's Mesa, Ariz., training base, "so I took a greenie and pitched a shutout."

"If he (Commissioner Kuhn) says we can't use them, well, I'd just want him to put on a uniform for 162 games in 180 days and see what he says then."

Kuhn has said there is no place in baseball for amphetamines, or pep pills, and barbiturates. Dobson said the greenies, which contain dextroamphetamine sulfate and amobarbital, have been in use since he began playing pro ball six years ago.

He added, however, that no one on the Oakland club is dependent on the pills. "That's what you've got to watch," he said. "You can't let them be a crutch. You're in trouble if you say 'I need them.'"

Elsewhere, the Pittsburgh Pirates began looking for a replacement for shortstop Gene Alley, sidelined for a month

Monday with a broken hand. Jackie Hernandez, acquired in a trade with Kansas City, appeared the likely choice but Manager Danny Murtaugh said he might try second baseman Dave Cash and third baseman Richie Hebner, among others, at the shortstop position.

Fred Patek, the 5-foot-4 shortstop who went from Pittsburgh to Kansas City in the Hernandez deal, signed with the Royals. Other signees were first baseman Mike Epstein and relief pitcher Darold Knowles with Washington, outfielder Larry Hise with Philadelphia and outfielder Buddy Bradford with Cleveland.

Pitcher Dave Boswell, a 20-game winner for Minnesota two years ago who slipped to 3-7 last season, checked into the Twins' camp six days late but 23 pounds under his 1970 playing weight. Boswell was given permission to report late because his wife gave birth last week.

The New York Yankees reported that reliever Lindy McDaniel would not be able to report until March 3 because of a gland operation on his neck.

Prospects for Derby Run at Santa Anita

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) —

Headed by Single Agent and Diplomatic Agent, 1971 Derby hopefuls resume their run toward prominence in the $30,000-added San Jacinto Stakes at Santa Anita Thursday.

The distance is one mile and will mark the first race against each other for the two Agents.

Bill Shoemaker is booked to ride Single Agent and Laffit Pincay, Jr., has Diplomatic Alley, sidelined for a month

Nixon Pal Is Pipeline to His Friends

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has installed one of his closest friends, former oil company representative Roger E. Johnson, as a White House pipeline for other close Nixon friends.

Johnson's unusual role as a special assistant to the President—keeping Nixon's "friends friendly"—was disclosed in his first interview since he came to work last September.

"My responsibility," Johnson explained, "is to keep in personal contact and communication with the good friends of the President he would like to see but doesn't have time to."

Johnson said he was tapped for the job last summer when there were continuing reports of some key people having trouble getting through to Nixon.

It's impossible for a full-time President to always see close friends, Johnson pointed out, and Nixon "felt that situation needed correcting so he could have a contact with his friends."

In his high-ceilinged, unadorned corner office in the Executive Office Building close to the White House, Johnson sat at a big desk by a white telephone and smilingly noted: "Some friends have been advised if they have any problem—or just want to talk—to call me. Their problems will reach his (Nixon's) ear."

He said the callers "have to be fairly close friends or they're not referred to me."

What the friends talk about is confidential, Johnson says. But he indicates it ranges from concern about the economy to worries over obscenity in movies. Or, perhaps, someone suggests he "pass the word" that some friend should get a White House dinner invitation.

Johnson's appointment is still not listed amid the published official presidential documents. He was first identified by spokesmen as a special assistant when he and his wife joined the Nixons for recent trips to Camp David and to the Virgin Islands last month.

Johnson, 64, and his Missouri-born, Colorado-raised wife, the former Louise Thompson, are about six years older than the Nixons but are among their closest friends, dating back to Whittier, Calif., days.

Democrats Dominate Meet of Governors

AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — With Democrats newly dominant, the nation's governors began today three days of conferences—and lobbying—likely to stress pleas for more federal aid to the states with fewer strings attached.

A spokesman said most if not all of the 50 state governors were expected for the mid-winter meeting of the National Governors' Conference. Twenty-nine of them are Democrats, 21 Republicans, after an election that reversed a GOP state house majority.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was scheduled to address their opening session, with a probable bid for support for President Nixon's program of federal revenue sharing with the states.

The governors have repeatedly endorsed federal revenue sharing, and also have called upon Washington to take over the financing of all welfare costs. That would increase the federal ante past the level proposed by Nixon.

The Governor's Conference would like both steps taken.

The governors and their wives will attend a black tie dinner at the White House tonight, and head for Capitol Hill Wednesday, to meet with congressional committees and party leaders.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB Get 2nd Opinion On Rapid Heart

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb—I started having paroxysmal tachycardia when I was 17 years old. First two times a year, then six times a year and by the time I was 30 every six weeks, lasting about 20 to 30 minutes. I am 48 now and I am having them as high as every four or five days. Lasting two or three hours. Yes, I have seen doctors. The last one told me to learn to live with it. I can not learn to live with it if I can be helped. Can I live in a small town and medical help is hard to get. I feel this situation is serious. Please advise me in your column. Maybe there is some hope. Please!

Dear Reader—It is amazing how well a person can do for years with bouts of rapid heart action. Although they are unpleasant in some cases, they are not usually life-threatening. In your case you have been having trouble for over 30 years.

The amount of trouble a bout of tachycardia causes depends upon how fast the heart beats and the state of the individual's circulation. They can be quite disabling and as one gets older, because of common changes in the circulation, they can become more serious.

In many cases something can be done to control frequent recurring episodes of tachycardia. There are several medicines like quinidine that are often successful in either preventing the episodes or at least making them less frequent. I would advise you to have a consultation with a heart specialist (cardiologist). You can write to your state medical society and ask for the names of cardiologists nearest to your home.

You might ask your doctor to arrange a consultation with a heart specialist. All reputable doctors are happy to arrange for a consultation with another physician or a specialist and often welcome a "second" opinion. If your doctor actually opposes your having a consultation, I

The Ifida Club was in session for the purpose of considering applications for admission. The first neophyte arose, went to the blackboard and wrote down today's hand and the bidding.

Then he said, "Ifida just passed the five-spade double, weda picked up 500 points, but Ifida dropped the jack of hearts or Ifida found the king of clubs over in the West hand, Ida made my diamond slam with 100 honors."

The chairman of the admissions committee rose. "Three Ifidas and one Ida in a one-sentence description of the hand—a most valuable new member! What does the chief analyst have to say?"

The chief analyst rose. "Let's grant him immediate membership," he suggested. "Ifida held the South cards. I doubt Ifida bid the hand as well, but Ida made the hand just as sure as God made little apples. Ifida played against any lead but a club. Ifida received a club lead, mighta gone set, but the hand was cold against the spade opening."

Do you see why the chief analyst was right? Let's look at the play. South ruffs the spade lead. Then he should play a trump to dummy and ruff dummy's last spade. He should then lead a heart to the king, a second heart back to the ace and a third heart to dummy's 10. It would hold and the slam would be home, but suppose it lost to the jack? East would have to lead a spade or a club and either lead would give South his slam.

ROBIN LEE

Tom Berry, District Boy Scout Executive, presented Scout Robin Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Joe Lee, as the guest speaker at Tuesday's Kiwanis Club meeting.

Scout Lee's presentation, accompanied by slides, was on the subject, S. O. A. R. - Save Our American Resources. His talk dealt with Ecology and a new concept called Ecosystems. He defined Ecosystems as the total of all the living and non-living parts—which support a chain of life within a given area. An ecosystem can be considered a chain, in a sense, with three basic links: Energy, Raw Materials, and Action Agents. Mr. Berry, on behalf of the Boy Scouts of America and the local district, presented to Kiwanian

Clifford Franks a certificate and lapel pin in recognition of twenty five years of service to Scouting. Guests at Tuesday's meeting were visiting Kiwanian Joe Riddle of Ft. Smith, and Key Clubbers Tim White, Robert Jones, and Steve Harris.

Liquor Price Change After Adjournment

By BILL SIMMONS
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) —Brad Jesson, legislative aide to Gov. Dale Bumpers, says that while the question did not come up in drafting the bill, he is confident of the constitutionality of the fair trade repealer act's provision prohibiting liquor price advertising.

The measure, House Bill 83, was approved by the House and Senate and then signed by Bumpers on Feb. 18 to become Act 106 of 1971.

The act actually will not become law until 90 days after sine die adjournment of the legislature's regular session, which is likely to be extended beyond the 60-day period provided by law.

Foes of the repeal of the "fair trade" statute long had argued that removing the minimum markup the law provided on the wholesale and retail prices of liquors and wines would be detrimental to small liquor stores.

These stores, called "mom and pop" liquor stores, were viewed as too limited in financial backing to compete on a free and open market with larger liquor outlets, which, theoretically, could cut prices to a level so low that smaller retail liquor stores would be forced out of business.

To allay those fears, the administration's bill contained a provision which says: "There shall be no advertising of prices of spirituous or vinous liquors or wines outside the permitted premises. This includes, but is not limited to, newspapers, magazines, programs, periodicals and signboards."

Jesson said that since the liquor industry was one which the states were permitted to strictly regulate and even prohibit, he saw little chance that a prohibition on the advertising of prices would be deemed unconstitutional.

In other states, courts have upheld laws restricting the size of signboards advertising liquor, prohibiting the use of signboards and billboards to advertise liquor, barring liquor advertisements within 200 feet of schools or churches, forbidding the use of a manufacturer's or wholesaler's name or trademark in advertisements.

The bill contains a "severability clause" which stipulates that if any provision of the act shall be held invalid, the rest of the act would continue in force.

Thinks Cops Need All Aid They Can Get

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — "The cops have enough of a job. They need all the help they can get," says a storekeeper whose tackle ended the 500-mile flight of a convict who escaped and took four hostages.

Barefoot, wearing prison denims and armed with scissors apparently stolen from the prison barber shop, Jimmy Dee Harvey escaped Monday night from a low-security area outside the walls of San Quentin prison, 15 miles north of San Francisco.

The 24-year-old convict forced his way into a car with two women and two children and raced south to this Orange County community 23 miles south of Los Angeles, dropping the hostages off unhurt along the way.

Police said two letters Harvey received Monday from his girl friend in Fullerton may have prompted him to break out even though he was due for parole in six months after serving nearly four years for car theft. One of the letters was found shredded on his prison bed. The contents were not disclosed.

Police watching the girl friend's house sighted the stolen car Tuesday and chased it at speeds up to 100 miles an hour, firing one shot which smashed a window. Finally the pursued car hit two others and the fugitive ran into a laundry and dry cleaning shop run by Herb Borden, 31.

"He almost knocked me over and pushed me and told me to get out of the way," Borden said. "I hit him high with a flying tackle. I had him so darn tight, when he realized he couldn't move he just lay there." Police arrived within seconds. Harvey apparently had disposed of the scissors and was not armed when caught.

Harvey was flown back to Northern California Tuesday a few hours after his hostages. He will face charges of kidnaping in Marin County, north of San Francisco.

Officials said Harvey had threatened the hostages he took at Novato, 13 miles north of the prison—Joyce Stansfield, 30, the wife of a Novato policeman; her children, Robert, 6, and Susanne, 5 months, and Cheryl Smith, 23.

"At times I felt absolutely nothing," Mrs. Smith recalled calmly. "Like we were out on a Sunday afternoon drive. Other times there was sheer panic. He occasionally waved the scissors at us."

But usually Harvey seemed friendly, Mrs. Smith said. "We wanted no harm to come to the children ... At a time like that, heroics just go out the door," she said.

The kidnaper let them stop to buy milk for the baby, Mrs. Smith said. "You can just tell when a person likes children."

The kidnaper let Mrs. Stansfield and the children off near Bakersfield 100 miles north of Los Angeles, and dropped Mrs. Smith off at Anaheim, near Fullerton.

Ducks can swim as soon as they are hatched, but they cannot fly for six weeks or more after hatching.

Emergency Preparedness Workshop

Mrs. Geneva P. Downing, Hempstead County Civil Defense Director, opened a Conference Tuesday night, the second phase of an Emergency Preparedness Workshop being conducted in Hempstead County by local and State Civil Defense personnel.

The meeting, to acquaint local government officials of the various types of disaster which could occur in a community aside from the effects of a nuclear attack, was held at the Court House in Hope.

Richard L. Holt, Civil Defense Coordinator of the University Extension Program at the State College of Arkansas in Conway, presented a slide presentation and defined the effects that a tornado or earthquake could have on a town and the steps that must be taken by the local government to restore order and aid the injured.

Marion Johnson, Instructor CDUEP, State College of Arkansas, assisted Holt in the narration and presented some typical radio communications and announced broadcasts to illustrate to the people one type of communication important to the safety of everyone in the community. Johnson also discussed the community shelter plan which has been completed and delivered to all citizens in Hempstead County. He said, "The plan is basically a plan to get the most people in the best shelter available in a disaster."

In Hempstead County there are very few shelter spaces for a population of over 19,600 in the county. "The CSP explains other measures to take in an emergency," Johnson continued.

Civil Defense officials will continue working in Hempstead County until all available measures have been met to upgrade the Civil Defense program to the point of maximum safety programmed to cope with any disaster. On March 11, some 30 persons representing all major cities and county government officials will participate in an Emergency Operations Exercise sponsored by the State College of Arkansas. Officials said that the objective of the exercise is to simulate as nearly as possible the actions and reactions of local officials and local Civil Defense staff members before and during a nuclear attack.

"The exercise will only be a simulation" Holt related, "but the techniques employed could be invaluable in the event our country is struck by a tornado or nuclear weapons." Participants will face simulated problems of nuclear explosions, fires, looting, movement to shelter, and deaths. The workers will have no knowledge of what will happen during the exercise and will have to react to each situation on the basis of their previous training, their best judgment, and available resources, officials explained.

TRYING TO

fine. Park brake in good shape. Front end okay. The sergeant watched. I watched.

The attendant began removing a wheel. A new state law requires the brakes of at least one wheel to be checked. The sergeant watched. I watched.

"Ding, ding," went a bell in the station. Customers out front. The station manager was doing paper work at desk. He couldn't be bothered.

The attendant doing the inspection quit and started pumping gas. There were a lot of customers.

Finally, the attendant returned and went back to inspecting.

At last, he turned to me and said, "You're next."

We walked out to the truck. He looked at the yellow Florida sticker on the windshield.

"How long is that good for?" he asked.

"It's brand new," I said.

"Well, you don't need an inspection," he said. "That sticker is good in Georgia, too."

"Ding, Ding," went the bell inside. He walked to pump gas. I cried all the way home.
